Special Lecture (Online)

Dec 11, 2021

TopicWestern Empiricism: Epistemological & Ontological Perspective.Organized byDepartment of Philosophy.

On December 11, 2021, An Online Special Lecture entitled 'Western Empiricism: Epistemological and Ontological Perspective' was organized for the students of B.A. II & III by the Department of Philosophy. Resource Person of the programme was Prof. Indoo Pandey Khanduri, Professor & Former Head, Department of Philosophy, Hemvati Nandan Bahuguna, Garhwal University, Srinagar, Uttarakhand. The programme was streamed on Zoom Portal and YouTube link of the college. All the faculty members of the department were present. Principal Dr. Deepshikha Banerji has warmly welcomed the guest speaker and Convenor of the department Dr. Neelima Misra has introduced the students with the guest.

By Introducing two main streams of Modern Western Philosophy as Rationalism and Empiricism, Prof. Khandoori has elaborated the term 'Knowledge' in their theoretical context. In rationalism, knowledge is innate. They are not worried for the justification of the knowledge. But rationalists have to establish the universality and certainty of the same. But for empiricism, knowledge is something new to our mind. She further explained the concept of Empiricism and added that in response to the early-to-mid-17th century "continental rationalism," John Locke (1632–1704) proposed in An Essay Concerning Human Understanding (1689) a very influential view wherein the only knowledge humans can have, is a posteriori, i.e., based upon experience.

Locke is famously attributed with holding the proposition that the human mind is a tabula rasa, a "blank tablet", in Locke's words "white paper", on which the experiences derived from sense impressions as a person's life proceeds are written. There are two sources of our ideas: sensation and reflection. In both cases, a distinction is made between simple and complex ideas. The former are unanalysable, and are broken down into primary and secondary qualities. Primary qualities are essential for the object in question to be what it is. Without specific primary qualities, an object would not be what it is. Secondary qualities are the sensory information we can perceive from its primary qualities. Therefore, its primary qualities dictate what the object essentially is, while its secondary qualities define its attributes. Complex ideas combine simple ones, and divide into substances, modes, and relations. According to Locke, our knowledge of things is a perception of ideas that are in accordance or discordance with each other, which is very different from the quest for certainty of Descartes.

There are limitations of Empiricism and its criticism came from within. As a theory of knowledge empiricism upholds the view that experience is the only source of knowledge, or that senses alone can provide us with knowledge. This form of empiricism can be refuted only by one who has such a conception that senses alone can provide us with knowledge. The common-sense view is that, the senses do provide us with knowledge of some sort and most of the people adopt this kind of empirical view. According to Hume, if unknown matters of fact are concerned, one does not know of any belief that could be called reasonable.

A. J. Ayer holds that, one cannot be absolutely sure about what one knows. Necessity is knowledge is to be found in a limited sense. What is known must be true, but that truth is not a necessary truth. We know matters of fact as a true as far as; it is possible on our part to establish them as true. Ayer thus holds that absolute necessity cannot be obtained in knowledge, but scientific knowledge is definitely true.

More than 80 students have participated in the programme very enthusiastically. The programme was ended after interaction of the students and vote of thanks given to the resource person by the convenor of the Department Dr. Nilima Misra.

As Chief Guest, Dr. Shailesh Shukla, Rajbhasha Adhikari, Bengaluru and founder of 'New Media Srijan Sansar' Global Foundation, kept the global scenario of Hindi ever expanding and strong in his lecture. Special guest, well-known poet and lyricist Shailendra Madhur ji mesmerized by singing the melodious song 'Gaon Ki Oer Chala Geet'

The closing ceremony of Hindi Pakhwada 2021 was held on 14 September 2021. While giving a lecture on the topic of India of Premchand's dreams, the chief guest of the program, Professor Santosh Bhadauria Allahabad University, said that Premchand's sense of India is free from narrow-mindedness and inspired to be fearless. Special guest of the program, Professor Hitendra Mishra, Northeast Mountain University, Shillong, said, 'Premchand, for the first time, removed Hindi language and literature from magic and directly linked it to the happiness and sorrow of the people. On the other hand, in his statement, well-known litterateur and poet Ajamil ji expressed the view that Premchand sharpened Hindi at the level of language. On this occasion, the debate competition among the college students on the topic 'Can Hindi be the medium of higher technical education' was very thought provoking.
